

Whale Bait

There's Fish and there's Whales in every audience.

Fish are people you don't want and you attract them with fish bait.

Guru: "I don't want beginners"

Also guru:

- Get Your First Client Online
- Top 10 Mindset Books
- Here's My Entire Playbook For Free

Fish Bait is counterproductive to both mind and business.

To the mind because it tricks people into thinking that they're doing the right thing as the numbers grow.

And to the business as it's just full of people who can't or are not interested in paying them.

This is fine if you want a show business. I don't.

I want a lean business in which I serve a few people and make $1 million+ per year.

By few I mean 67.

12 people paying you $500/week

+

55 people paying you $250/week

+

A few customer offers that create $5k/month.

$84,000/month = $1 million/year.

We need less leads than we think. What we really need are good leads with the attitude, income and desire to work with us. I call them Whales. And they're attracted to different things than Fish.

4 Types Of Whale Bait

Whale Bait is hard to teach because it's more feel than fact.

The 4 Baits below are not a recipe. They're ingredients.

Test them out until you get a feel for what you enjoy and what you don't. Good Whale Bait often has a mix of the 4.

I don't do content calendars but if I did it would look somewhat like this:

Yellow	Green	Blue	Red	Green	Blue	Yellow
Red	Yellow	Green	Blue	Red	Yellow	Green
Red	Blue	Yellow	Green	Yellow	Green	Red
Blue	Red	Red	Yellow	Green	Blue	Blue

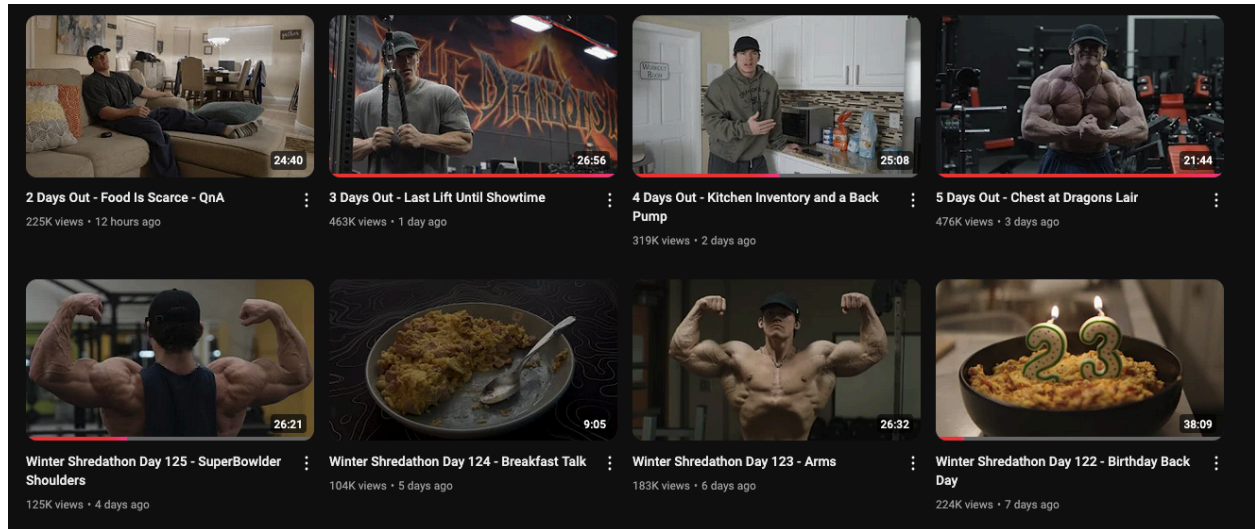

1/4) Protagonism

Out of all 4 content buckets, Protagonist-type content is the one with the highest energy.

The market is full of people of reaction. They wait to see what happens and then they react. They are, by definition, not the protagonist of the story.

There's very few true Protagonists. People who don't wait for the market to happen to the market but they happen to it.

Protagonists don't treat social media like social media. They treat it like Netflix. It's literally a show about them and we're all playing catch-up.

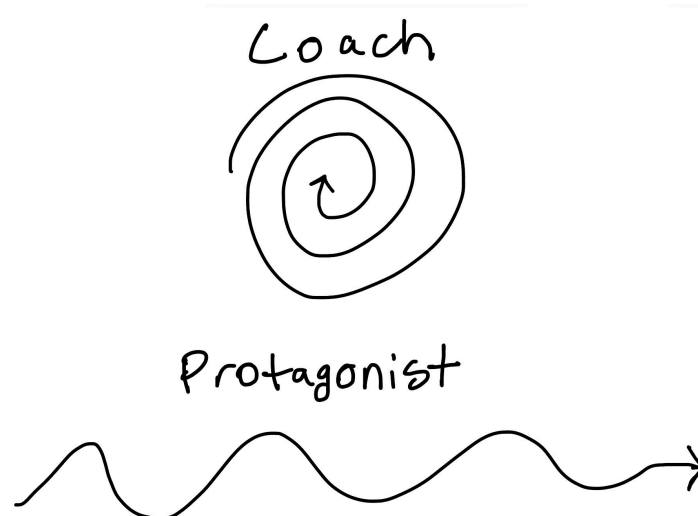

Protagonist Post

Your Protagonist Post is your call to adventure. It's the post you have pinned for the entire year and that you constantly quote, reference, update and remind people of.

I've posted 60,000 times and this is the most profitable one:

<https://x.com/OneJKMolina/status/1741806790935756855>

More than the small details, the goal of the Plan is demonstrating that you're bold enough to share yours. This is enough to increase the strength of your brand because it turns you from Coach to a Protagonist.

Updates

Plans have Big Updates and Small Updates.

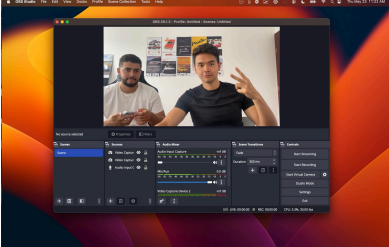

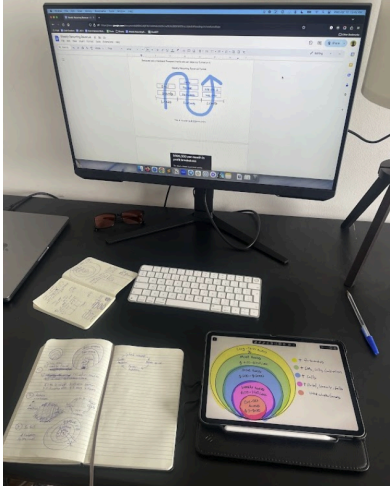

Big Updates have major significance to the plot:

- Progress Updates
- Plot Twists

Small updates don't but still add depth:

Win	Reminding Of Goal	Event that day
☐ $100.00 USD Succeeded ✓  * ☐ $100.00 USD Succeeded ✓  * ☐ $100.00 USD Succeeded ✓  * ☐ $100.00 USD Succeeded ✓  * ☐ $100.00 USD Succeeded ✓  * ☐ $100.00 USD Succeeded ✓  * ☐ $100.00 USD Succeeded ✓  * ☐ $100.00 USD Succeeded ✓  * ☐ $100.00 USD Succeeded ✓  * ☐ $100.00 USD Succeeded ✓  * ☐ $100.00 USD Succeeded ✓  * $100,000 per month in profit breakdown The Goal = $100k in personal profits. 120 Cash Creator Community Spots for $300-$450 a week = ~$130,000 MRR 12 Cash Creator Table Seats for $500-$1000 a week = ~$24,000 MRR. Partnering up with 5 creators I'll choose for 10% profits + 10% on sale = Long term game. Plus ad-hoc sales of $100 workshops, $1k - $5k calls and paying for months in advance... This adds up to ~$160,000. ($160k) - (my partner's buyout) - (costs) = $100k per month in personal profit.  <tr><th>Client Updates</th><th>Over The Shoulder</th><th>Physical Movement</th></tr>	Client Updates	Over The Shoulder	Physical Movement
Client Updates	Over The Shoulder	Physical Movement

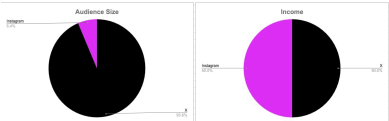

Just canceled and refunded a client. Felt great!

Non-Business Related

L's (but only after Ws)

Statistics

In hindsight

Emotions

Recycle

(Recycle your top ones every 6-8 weeks).

Minigames

Minigames are games that are correlated to the main goal but don't last that long.

- The Cash Creator Store
- The Baby Project
- The \$100k In 30 Days Challenge

Nobody opens up social media because they're having an exciting time. Protagonism, Updates and Minigames makes you exciting.

2/4) Philosophy

You attract fish with promises. But you attract Whales with philosophy. To them it's not just about the goal. It's about how they get there.

Exposing people to your philosophy clearly answers the question "what will we NOT do?".

This is attractive to people who have already done, tried and failed at stuff. These prior experiences made them just as interested in what they avoid than what they get involved in.

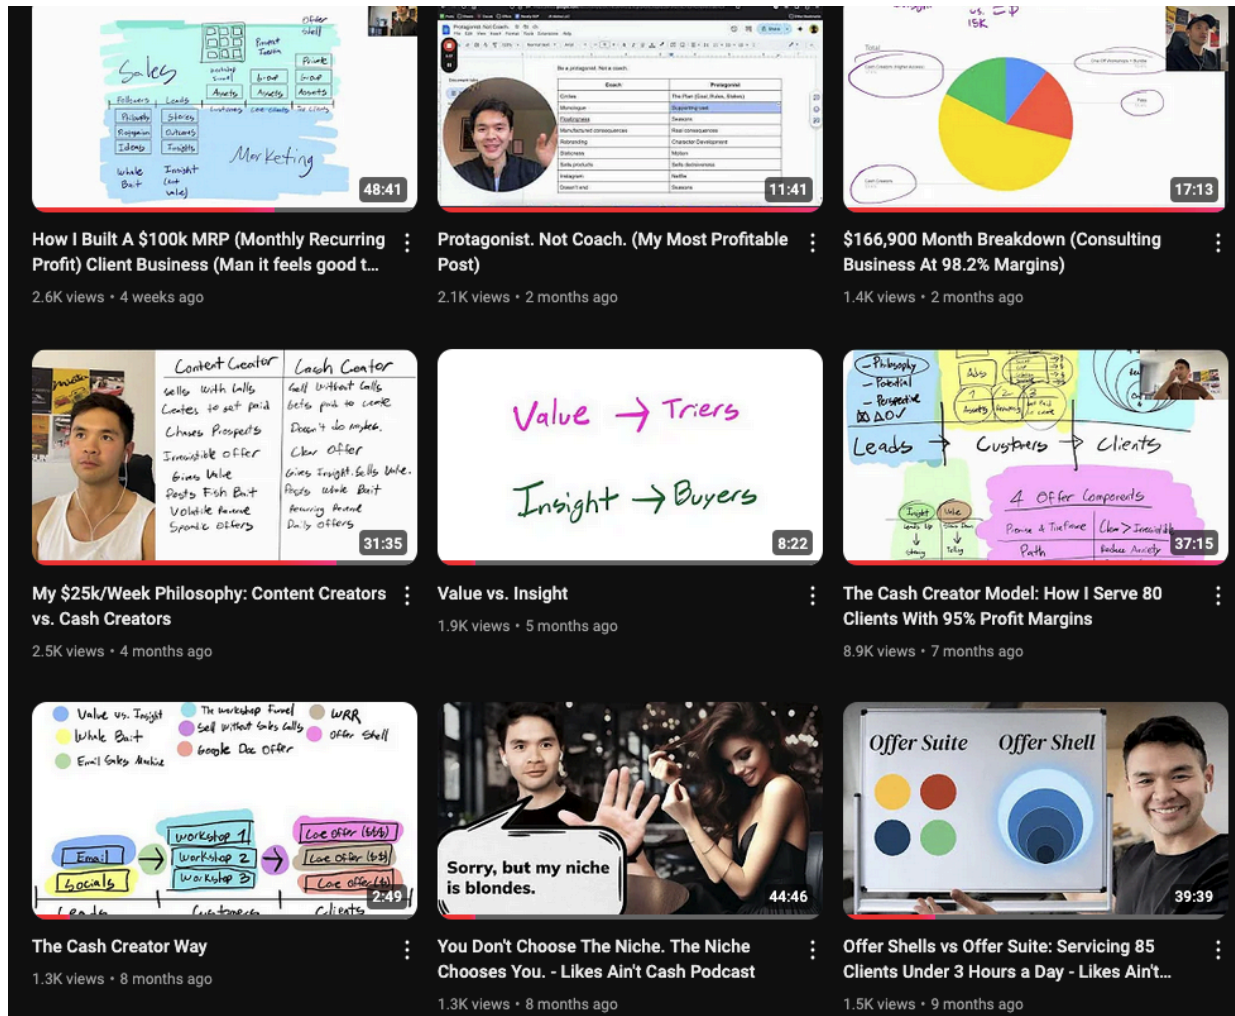

- What do you believe in?
- Why do you bother?
- What are you willing to tolerate?
- What are you not?
- What's obvious to you?
- What do you observe?
- What's hiding in plain sight?

Philosophy creates a type of attraction that's hard to explain. This is a good thing.

Contrast

In marketing, better is worse. And different is better. My marketing is contrast-heavy. This is intentional as contrast is persuasive.

Ideas

You're always selling. You're either selling Ideas or you're selling Offers. The order matters.

Selling Offers first limits how many people enter your funnel because taking an offer requires thought. Ideas don't.

People just buy them or not automatically. It's a reaction more than a choice.

Treat social media like an Idea Marketplace. If you can get them to buy into your Ideas it's easier to get them to buy into your Offers.

Socials	Email
Whale Bait	Whale Bait Workshop
Offer Shell	Offer Shell Implementation
The Cash Creator Way	Cash Creators

A second benefit of ideas is that they expand the number of people you can work with. Both above and below your level.

Identity

People will live and die for their nation. Yet they would do the exact same thing if they were born in another. People self-persuade with identities even though it may not make 100% objective sense.

People want to have a sense of belonging. Creating an Identity that people can belong to satisfies that sense.

stand-in 'girlfriend'	well loved woman
① tolerated	① accepted
② stagnant	② forward
③ unknown	③ certain
④ Lusted after	④ Cherished
⑤ tally points	⑤ freely given
⑥ shallow	⑥ depth
⑦ appeased	⑦ supported
⑧ volatile	⑧ consistent
⑨ stand in	⑨ the 'one'

If they resonate with your Identity, the only way to become this Identity is by paying you.

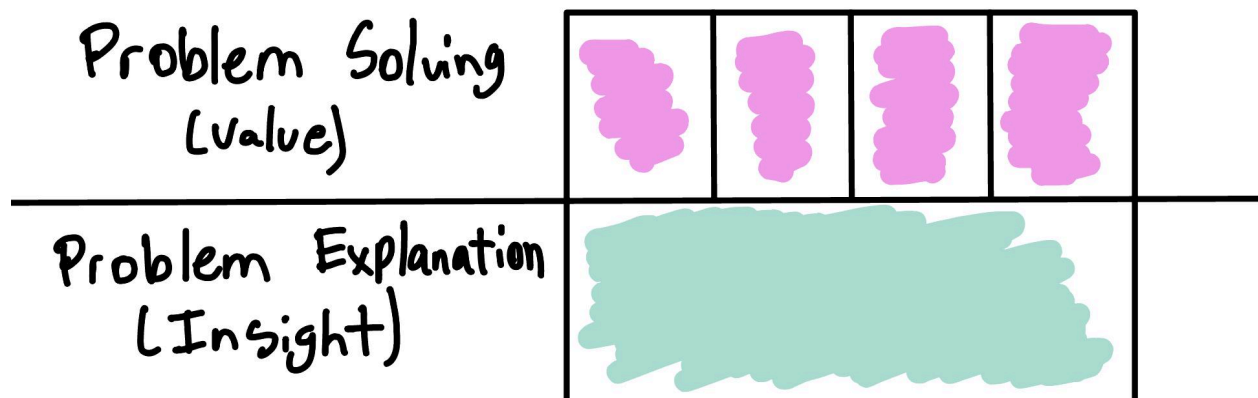

3/4) Problems

People don't act out of gratitude as much as they act out of self interest.

Giving Value for free makes their self interest to use the thing you gave them. And it's free so why bother doing anything else?

This is a huge struggle I have.
Basically gave away all my knowledge for free and when I opened up my coaching offer people felt like they already had everything.

Insight is explaining why something is happening. Unlike Value, it aligns the incentives.

- Why is this happening?
- Why is this not happening?
- What am I doing wrong?
- Where should my focus be?
- How is this different?
- What am I missing?
- Why do I feel this way?
- Why did this work (or not work)?

Insight requires thinking deeper. This is a good thing as it makes Insight scarce.

4/4) Proof

I analyzed my top-selling emails the other day and a trend stood out: Almost all of them were about the past.

marketing beyond conveying information is insecurity.

- Nassim Taleb

Proving what your Protagonism, Problem-Solving and Philosophy have created makes people trust you faster.

You're not creating an imaginary future. You're just telling a real story. Proof is the most believable out of the 4 content buckets because it already happened.

- What outcome did I create for myself?
- For others? ← Case Study Template
- Fascinating Facts

You can then divide each by

- Thinking Smaller \(Day, Week, Month, Year\)
- Thinking Laterally \(Emotions, Time, Income, Relationships, Life\).

Notes:

1. Give away the Insight, not the Value. As it might make people want to do the thing without you.
2. Every time a client gets one I'll write a case study on it or a video and re-use it every 8 weeks. These convert consistently.

Avoiding Fish Bait

Whale Bait is a lot about managing your own internal state. People buy because of your ability to create results, yes. But they also buy because you know how to manage your internal state and provide the right answer.

Managing your internal state will help you avoid Fish Bait traps that feel good in the moment but lead to you making less money.

1) Thinking About People Who Have Not Given You Money

Broke people can't afford you. But you also can't afford them.

Create as if you were creating for your best clients. Pick one and create as if you were talking to them. This content is much better received.

2) Focusing On Peers Over Prospects

- "Just closed a client. Let's go!"
- "My prices are high."
- "Why is everyone's engagement down?"

3) Boxy Language

Like "Coaching, Program, Course, Mentorship"... These put you in a box.

Just call it the name. It's helpful to be hard to pin down.

4) Saying Yes To Many Things

Part of your appeal are the things that you say no to. Be clear on (and advertise) what you don't do because it will attract the people who think like you.

E.g. Why you won't catch me selling a sales call script.

5) Calling Your Avatar Out

Like saying "If you're a 6-7 figure entrepreneur..."

It sends a desperation signal. People who say this are also saying that they get a bunch of unqualified leads.

6) Defensiveness and Reactivity

Not a fan of calling out trends or mentioning people on your DMs who send you cringe pitches. It makes you look reactive. Leaders don't react.

7) Shaming

There's many terrible marketing strategies. Shaming's gotta be bottom 3. My marketing allows people to save face heavily. Their problems are hard enough.

8) Nicheing Down Too Much

Nicheing down too much can backfire quickly because it's using a 2D Frame in a 3D World. In a 2D World you serve one niche and one avatar with one trait. In a 3D World, people will come to you from many places and you don't choose which one.

You don't choose a niche. The niche chooses you.

9) Asking What Your Followers Want To See

Market research, in warm markets, is overrated.

People don't think how they feel,
they don't say what they think and they don't do what they say.

—David Ogilvy

Leaders don't ask their followers what they want to see. Because they're a leader. To find the truth, it's more helpful to make an offer than ask a question.

10) Creating Content You Don't Enjoy Creating

If you don't enjoy creating it the audience won't enjoy consuming it. I used to create talking head videos that frankly looked as if I was being held hostage. It's unnatural to me. And the audience could tell.

Making content in your zone of genius allows you to create better content but it also sends a signal that you care more about the quality of your work than the perception of it. This is attractive.

Lean Into These 6

1) Frequent Public Offers

I make an offer every day on email and an offer every day on social media.

The email offer is “buy” or “reply”.

The social media offer is “join the list” and in some situations “DM me”.

This works for me as social media penalizes you if you’re always selling products. Whereas an offer to join the list can be framed as a place where they can get more of your Protagonist Journey or Ideas.

Small Promo:

JK Molina  @OneJKMolina · Aug 9, 2024

How do you revive a "dead" audience?

A list I considered "dead" made me $1.04 million.

I'll show you how you can revive yours even if you've sent the same offer for months in tomorrow's email

Link ($0): likesaintcash.com

Big Promo:

JK Molina  @OneJKMolina

 ...

Just hit my fifth $100,000/month profit month in a row.

95% profit margins. 80 clients. With just 1 VA. And less than 4 working hours a day.

I've got a 39 minute video walking you through the model that got me here.

Comment "model" for the link.

July:	Net volume from sales ⓘ $118.3K
August:	Net volume from sales ⓘ $112.8K
September:	Net volume from sales ⓘ $107.7K
October:	Net volume from sales ⓘ $116.1K

● Big Promo

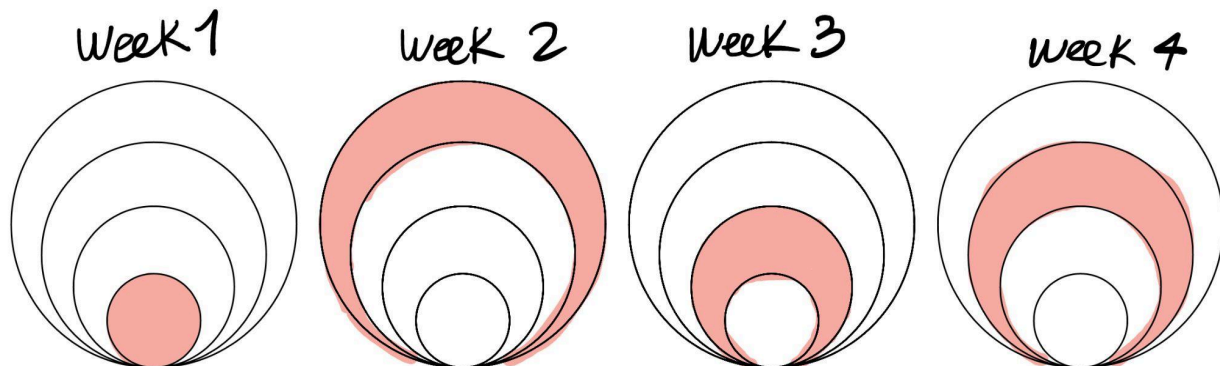

○ Small Promo

○	●	○	○	○	●	○
○	○	○	●	○	○	○
○	○	●	○	○	○	●
○	●	○	○	●	○	○

Templates inside 1000 New Whales.

2) Offer Cycling

If you can get something anytime, that something becomes less desirable. Cycle through levels of your Shell so that you can take things down and have times where people can't buy certain offers.

3) Letting Business Finance Your Life

Using your life as an excuse makes people aware of your Protagonist Journey and it makes every offer a bit more fun. "Because I'm [doing stuff], I've decided to..."

- Moving to Europe / Birthday / Wedding.

4) Advertising Consequences

I use advertise in the literal definition of “let know of...” Advertising consequences of not taking action (privately and publicly) conditions the audience to buy faster.

<https://ckarchive.com/b/p9ueh9h3ql58qim6ggw6kap3ql333hr>

5) Turning Liabilities Into Assets

Instead of marketing how to get something, market how to turn something they have into something they don't.

“Make $20k” will attract people without $20k.

“Turn that old piece of junk you've got parked in your garage into $20k” attracts people with potential energy.

- What does your current client already have that you can turn into a desired outcome?
- What activities are they already doing that you can help with?

6) BizOpp Angle

BizOpp is a great angle.

I don't do BizOpp but my marketing borrows strongly from it.

- What can you stop doing?
- What things are optional?
- What new path is better, faster, easier?

A new path is not exclusively attractive to beginners. Pros want that too.

In Practice

Your brain on problems: https://commons.wikimedia.org/wiki/File:Disappearing_dots.gif.

Often we look at something but we can't see it. Happens a lot with creativity.

Rewatch this when you feel a little blocked and it will restore your vision.

You don't need inspiration. You need restoration.

Some tips:

- Be more honest.
- It's not a skill issue. It's an environment, movement or screen size issue.
- Reduce the noise.
- Let clients tell you. The best people to ask on how to get money are the people who already gave you money.

Next Steps

1. Start with your Protagonist Post
2. Create a cadence you're comfortable with using the 4 Whale Bait Content Buckets:
 - a. Protagonism
 - b. Philosophy
 - c. Proof
 - d. Problems
3. Restore your vision when you're feeling "off". Sometimes we've been inside of our work for so long that we forget how impressive it looks from the outside.