

The Cash Script

I've gone through many Sell By Chat Scripts. Some were effective but they all died young.

They were all dependent on some sort of gimmick. If people caught on to that gimmick then the script wouldn't work and I'd have to come up with or find a new one because the current one feels corny.

(Remember the "Would you be opposed to..." gimmick?)

Scripts would last for 3 months. But this one has lasted for almost a full year and is still going strong because it doesn't depend on a gimmick. It's solid yet flexible. And applicable in many situations.

Ideally, the Cash Creator Model will get you to a point where you only get inbound and you can use the Script for it. But today we'll go over the whole picture:

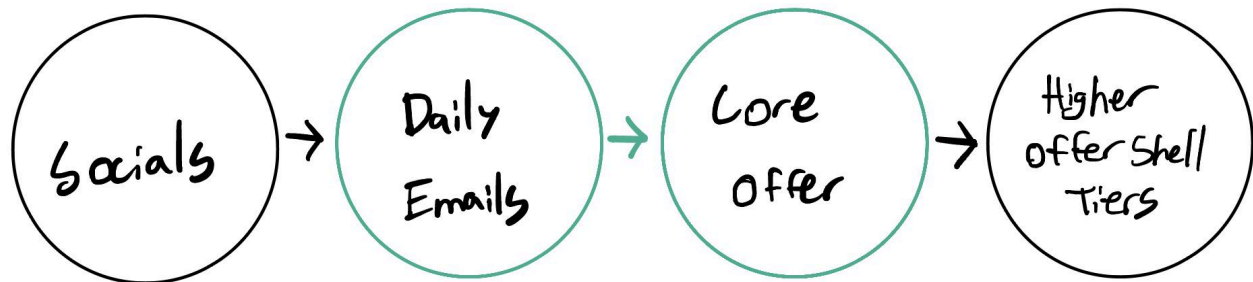

Inbound. Outbound. And tricky scenarios.

Let's roll.

The Cash Script	1
1) Scouting	6
2) Position	8
3) Offer	11
4) Follow Up	12
5) Yes / No / Waitlist	15
The Completed Script	16
The Cash Script (Outbound)	21
Who To Message?	21
The Outbound Script	22
Situational Scripts	27
How We Keep Track Of Conversations	28
Recap	30
Resources	31

The Cash Script

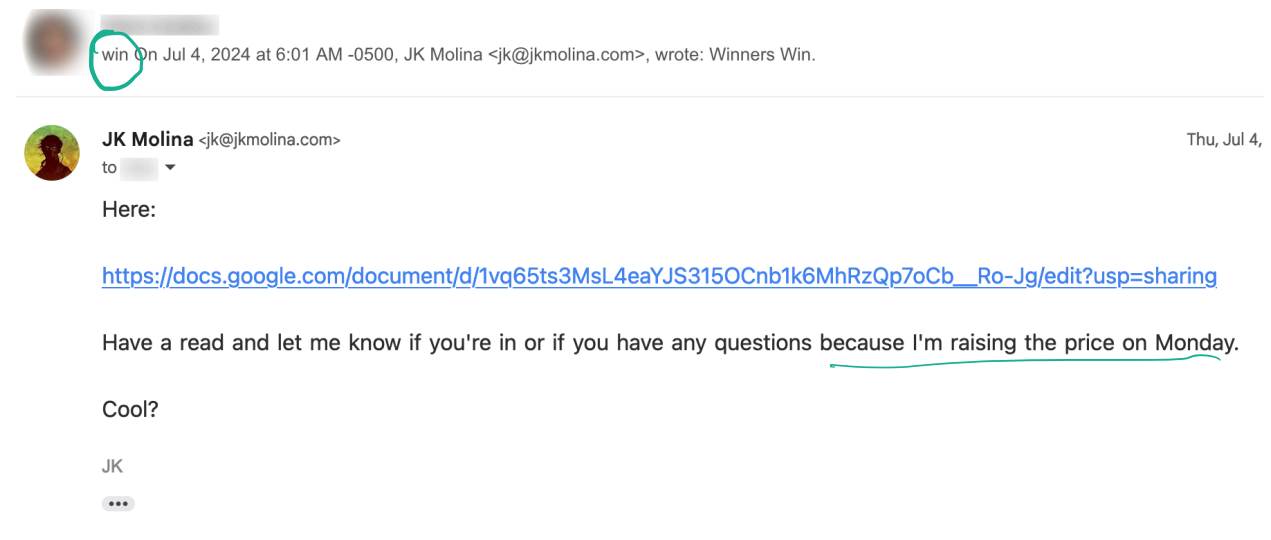

The Funnel:

The Script below is designed for the green part: How do you turn an Email reply into a core offer sale?

(If your strongest channel isn't email I'll show you what to do. For now let's go over the script first.)

Ideally you ask for a reply. Either on socials or email. Then they reply, you send doc, then say they're in and that's that. End of story. Like this:

  Fri, J
to me ▾
I'm in.

I've been unsure because I don't think I've figured out who my audience is (or how to find them). But willing to put in the work.
...

JK Molina

Great. Next steps: 1) Lock it in here. 2) Book your kickoff call with me. Looking forward to it.

to me ▾

Great! Looking forward.

But ideals rarely happen.

I'll walk you through a rather tricky conversation that ended in a great client. Then I'll dissect what happened at each stage so you see how the Script works.

P.S.

Before you leave: Can you hit "reply" and let me know what are you working on?

It gives me insight on how to be helpful to you.

It could literally be a one sentence reply or a full story.

Just takes a few seconds to do that now.

Likes ain't cash,

JK Molina.

Re: Is this thing on?

External

Inbox x

Clients x

to me ▾

May 21, 2024, 8:44 AM

Hey JK, my name is .

I have built a large following on Instagram [REDACTED], but I've really been struggling to play to content game the past year or two, and that's how I've stumbled on your stuff. I'm struggling to show up in my business because I don't enjoy the way I have to show up and make money.

I look forward to learning more from you. The way you run your business is exactly what I'm looking to do.

[REDACTED]

JK Molina <jk@jkmolina.com>

Tue, May 21, 9:53 AM

to [REDACTED]

I did the same. You can run a biz of one without much friction. You just need the plan to match it.

I can show you how to get there inside Cash Creators.

Would you like to see the details?

JK

[REDACTED]

to me ▼

Yes! I'd love to see it.

JK Molina <jk@jkmolina.com>

Wed, May 22, 9:44 AM

to [REDACTED]

Here:

https://docs.google.com/document/d/1vq65ts3MsL4eaYJS315OCnb1k6MhRzQp7oCb__Ro-Jg/edit?usp=sharing

Have a read and let me know if you're in or if you have any questions because I'm down to my final spot.

Cool?

JK

JK Molina <jk@jkmolina.com>

Fri, May 24, 8:42 AM

to [REDACTED]

Hey [REDACTED]

We close in 6 days and I don't want you to miss out.

Are you in or do you have any questions about what Cash Creators would look like for you?

JK

JK Molina <jk@jkmolina.com>

Mon, May 27, 8:54 AM

to [REDACTED]

Hey [REDACTED] - I'm closing your file because I didn't hear back from you.

JK

to me ▾

Wed, May 29, 8:04 AM

Hey JK, apologies on the delay.

I am definitely still interested. I have been mulling it over because I'm still somewhat new to your content and approach, but each email I'm getting bought in more and more.

Your approach resonates more and more, though. Reminds me of several books I've read like Company of One, Profit First, and Work Less, Make More.

I didn't realize until now that your cash creator is a private thing and you run it live. I assumed it was evergreen, so my mistake.

If there's still an opportunity to join, I did have a few questions.

[REDACTED]

JK Molina <jk@jkmolina.com>

Wed, May 29, 11:13 AM

to [REDACTED]

ask away

I think that my biggest question right now is around ongoing content creation to fuel my business.

I've been running a successful online fitness coaching company for several years, and a lot of my clientele come from the ongoing content I post on Instagram. I also have several email automations in place, that do need reworked, but they're there.

I've been selling my coaching via email with a PDF document (similar to what you may do with google docs), and it's been working fairly well. I've enjoyed not taking as many sales calls.

For me, the struggle has been feeling like I'm on a hamster wheel with content. Coming up with and creating new content on a daily/weekly basis has been an issue, and I'm wanting to find a way to make the content I post be better at selling, if that makes sense.

JK Molina <jk@jkmolina.com>

Sun, Jun 9, 8:54 AM

to [REDACTED]

I wouldn't focus on creating new content. The real shift you need is how to use more content out of the work you're already doing.

It works if you have the plan to match it because we don't come up with "new" stuff often. You don't need to.

I can help you with this inside Cash Creators. I've got 2 spots left. Would you like one?

JK

...

to me ▾

Mon, Jun 10, 7:39 AM

Hey JK, I agree.

Okay, I think I'm ready to commit. Let me know the next steps.

...

JK Molina <jk@jkmolina.com>

Mon, Jun 10, 8:34 AM

to [REDACTED]

Next steps:

- 1) Lock it in here.
- 2) Book your kickoff call with me.

Looking forward to it.

JK

...

to me ▾

Mon, Jun 10, 9:09 AM

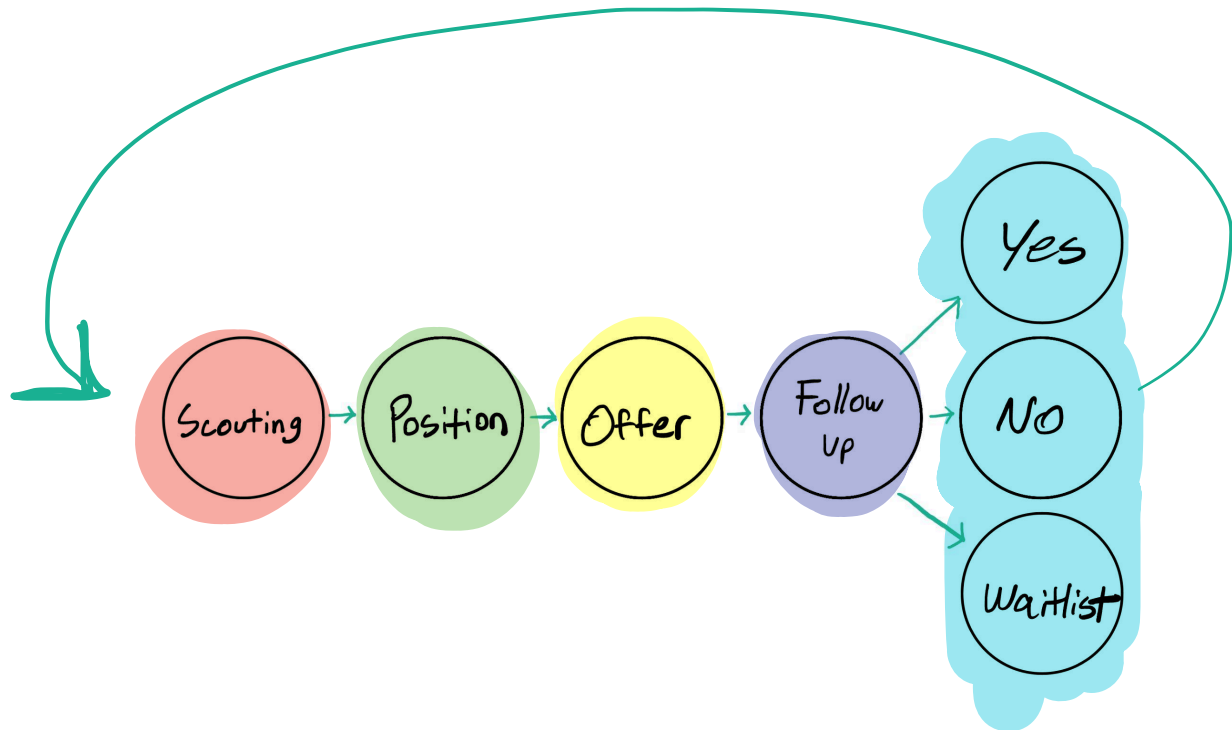

Hey JK! All signed up.

I'm assuming once I'm accepted into the group I'll be able to schedule that call? Just wanna make sure I'm following your steps correctly.

...

The 5-stage Cash Script plus relevant bits of the conversation transcribed so it's easier to reference:

JK	Person
P.S. Before you leave: Can you hit "reply" and let me know what are you working on? It gives me insight on how to be helpful to you.
	Hey JK. I have built a large following on Instagram but I'm struggling to show up in my business because I don't enjoy the way I have to show up and make money.
I did the same. You can run a biz of one without much friction. You just need the plan to match it. I can show you how to get there inside Cash Creators. Would you like to see the details?
	Yes! I'd love to see it.
Here: doc. Have a read and let me know if you're in or if you have any questions because I'm down to my final spot. Cool?

Hey. We close in 6 days and I don't want you to miss out.
Are you in or do you have any questions about what Cash Creators would look like for you?
Hey - I'm closing your file because I didn't hear back from you.
	Hey JK, apologies on the delay. If there's still an opportunity to join, I did have a few questions.
Ask away.
	I think that my biggest question right now is around ongoing content creation to fuel my business. For me, the struggle has been feeling like I'm on a hamster wheel with content. Coming up with and creating new content on a daily/weekly basis has been an issue, and I'm wanting to find a way to make the content I post be better at selling, if that makes sense.
I wouldn't focus on creating new content. The real shift you need is how to use more content out of the work you're already doing. It works if you have the plan to match it because we don't come up with "new" stuff often. You don't need to. I can help you with this inside Cash Creators. I've got 2 spots left. Would you like one?
	Hey JK, I agree. Okay, I think I'm ready to commit. Let me know the next steps.
Next steps: 1) Lock it in here. 2) Book your kickoff call with me. Looking forward to it.
	All signed up.

1) Scouting

The first step is Scouting where you can be helpful.

These questions are useful to find it. You can include these both during conversations or on the email itself:

- What are you working on?
- What's the goal?
- What would you like help with?
- What feels like it needs the most help?
- Where does the thing break?
- What have you tried?
- What's missing?

In this case, this person said it: he needs help with his content game. Back to the convo.

Sometimes you'll have to dig a little deeper. You can use the questions above or have some ready on your own to find where you can be helpful.

The screenshot shows a WhatsApp chat interface. At the top, a contact with a blue circle icon containing a white 'k' and a redacted name is sending a message. The message says 'Hi JK!' followed by a question about being a coach or guru. Below this, a response from 'JK Molina' asks for more context. Then, the contact 'k' responds with details about their business, including revenue and client count. 'JK Molina' then asks how they get clients. Finally, the contact 'k' responds that clients are inbound from their Facebook profile. Green lines and circles are drawn over the text in the original image to highlight specific parts.

Contact: k (redacted name)
Time: Sat, Jun 8, 11:25 AM

Message 1: Hi JK!
Do I have to be a coach, guru, or something to make this work? I'm an ads agency owner and I would like to give this new lead generation system a try. Do you think this would work for me?

Message 2: JK Molina
Can you give me more context on the business? Niche, audience, how many clients you're working with, etc

Message 3: k
I run an ads agency primarily serving eCom businesses stuck at 1M/month max revenue on Tiktok i'm working with 15 clients right now

Message 4: JK Molina
How do you get clients now?

Message 5: k
Most of them are inbound. From my Facebook profile

When you find it, move on to the next stage. Back to the convo.

2) Position

This is where we save the most time compared to other scripts. We're not going to solve their problems because we risk getting sidetracked. We lack context on their problem and they lack context on our solution. So it might get long.

To avoid that, position the offer you're planning to make as the solution. Back to the convo.

2 more examples:

Reply with your offer and I'll show you where to start with yours.

Likes aint cash,

JK Molina

to me ▼

Man, I dig the way you think...

And I'd love to hear your thoughts for this offer.

Cheers,

JK Molina <jk@jkmolina.com>

to

Tue, Jul 2, 11:18 AM

The numbers are impressive. I wouldn't add anything.

But I would remove a lot. The offer is clearly compelling and you can do many things. But you profit more when you make the message about the one piece of information that the prospect wants you to convey.

I do this for you in Cash Creators along with a plan if you'd like to see the details.

Lmk.

JK

Another who asked about a specific problem:

I'll open 12 spots in June 3rd.

For an early invite reply "game".

I am tempted....but would I be in the same place as [redacted] couldn't help me with getting an audience. 2000 emails right now .

JK Molina <jk@jkmolina.com>

to [redacted]

Together the focus would be on what you didn't lose but you haven't leveraged.

Existing clients. Previous leads. etc...

$20k is good. $40k is not too far. You just need the plan.

I can help if you'd like. Would you like to see the doc?

Hi Tim,

Appreciate the personal touch.

Main movement restrictions:

- Left knee after full rupture of patella tendon (2022) - successful surgery - now squatting 90/100kg. Most issues not structural bur neural due to nerve being severed - quad sometimes doesn't switch on quickly enough!
- Lower back - right sacrum particularly. Leads to some neural issues.
- Especially tight ITB left and right
- neck

Thanks again

Hey [redacted]

Thanks for your honesty.

What have you tried to resolve the neural issues, tight ITB, and neck?

Tim.

Position your Doc as the answer and offer to send it.

Note: You'll probably sell your Core Offer 90% of the time. But some prospects clearly need something else. In that case you can sell a different level of your Offer Shell: Lower like one-time workshops or higher like Calls or DMs.

Back to the main convo. We've Scouted where we can be useful and we've Positioned our Doc as the answer.

3) Offer

If they ask for the Doc, just send it.

If you already went through the Validation Phase inside Sell Without Sales Calls, your Doc is validated and it can do the heavy lifting for you.

Don't talk yourself out of the sale. Simply send them the offer and wait.

4) Follow Up

This is where you usually get ghosted. That's normal.

On average for me,

- Per email, 0.8% of receivers reply.
- 21% of repliers say they're in.
- 63% of the people who say they're in actually pay.

The part of the brain that makes a decision is not the same part that follows through on that decision.

We want them to move. But we don't want to be annoying, so Consequence-Based Follow Ups are a great help:

You create consequences and you simply remind them of it.

Simple. True. And quite effective.

Back to the conversation.

They're Consequence-Based Follow Ups because they're just reminding people of what will happen if they don't move.

We're going to cap spots anyway. We're going to close anyway. Follow Ups are just reminders to prospects of the inevitable consequences.

Resource: Consequence-Based  Follow Ups.

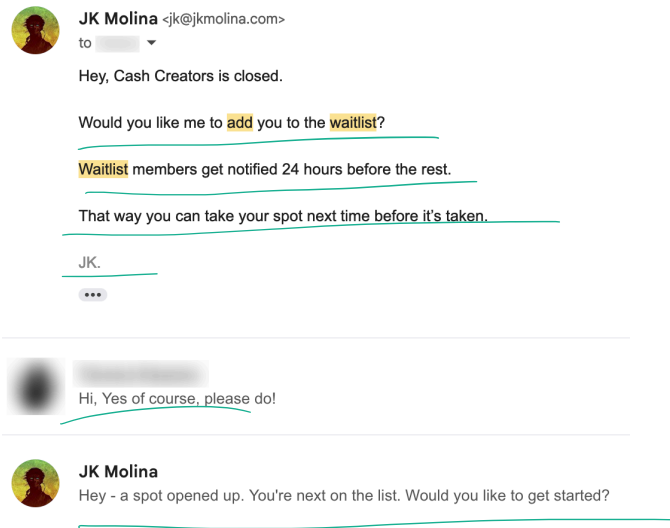

Back to the conversation.

5) Yes / No / Waitlist

It's not the No's that kill you. It's the Maybe's that kill you.

That's why we will only get 1 of 3 answers of which none are a Maybe: Yes, No or Waitlist.

- Yes: They bought.
- No: Either they said no or I closed their file. This is most people. And that's ok. Not everyone is your client. Learn to say No fast because they will free up the space you need to achieve your Freedom Number faster and more calmly. Be a heartless bastard.
- Waitlist: If someone stalls or it's not the right time, don't offer to Follow Up. Offer your Waitlist so you can hold the status frame when it's a better time.

Note: For more on Waitlist usage, check Waitlist Workshop.

Back to the conversation.

Rules of Thumb:

1. Insight, Not Value.

If you give out value you risk getting yourself into a consulting session. You're distracting people from what they lack (you). And that's when they will want to try your stuff before they buy your stuff.

2. The less you say the better.

Don't overengineer your responses. Keep it focused enough to show you have the answer but be vague around the details. Your validated doc plus the questions after is all they need to know about the details.

The Cash Script (Outbound)

Let's say you don't have that many inbound leads. Or you recognize that you must get scrappy. This might happen during Summer when things are tough.

The best place to start is by making sure you're doing The 5 Fundamentals inside The Checklists. (It's easier to send 1 email a day than to send and track 50 DMs a day.)

But if you are doing them, and the business isn't picking up, then we do what's required. Ask me and the Cash Creators for your best next move or do outbound.

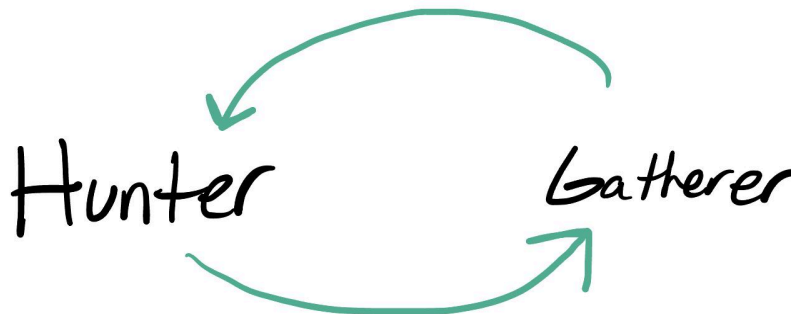

Who To DM?

The best place to start is with people who already gave you money: Current Clients to upsell them. Past Clients to bring them back. And Customers to turn them into clients.

(See The Summer Plan for scripts on those).

But let's say you already exhausted that list. Then your next best option is to message your audience because they already know you.

Think of the process as a Hunter - Gatherer relationship:

Every time you post you gather leads:

Every time you DM them you hunt them.

If you're not getting as many leads as you want - there's two things you can do:

1) Gather more.

Post more or boost them. You can boost it with ads or by paying others to share it. You can also reach out to followers or people who engaged with previous posts. Auto DMs / 2-Steps are great for these since they get lots of engagement.

2) Hunt more.

Send more DMs to existing engagers and followers. The daily recommended amount is however many you can stick to. I started with 5 because I wanted to get into the habit. 15 is a good starting point. You can do that or give someone this workshop and hire them to do it for you.

Sidenote: If I were to start all over again I would have 1 Google Doc and 1 Social Media account. Then DM like a maniac.

The Outbound Script

For Inbound Leads, Scouting is the natural first step because they came to you.

But you can't just start Scouting when you do Outbound. It's too soon. You need to create the right environment to start Scouting first.

We do this with an Intro Question:

2 good ones:

- Hey - appreciate the follow. People usually follow me because of A, B, C. Do any of these sound relevant? I may have some stuff that could be helpful.
- A This or That Approach. Example: Are you a coach or are you just enjoying the content?

Most won't reply. But a few will actually tell you what they want.

- "I'm a coach. Currently looking for clients."
- "Following for the fitness insights."

This is important because it gives you an opening.

That's all that your first message needs to do. Because then you can start Scouting for where you can be helpful. AKA pick up where the Outbound Script starts.

A rough example from when I used to do outbound plus the Outbound Cash Script (Same Script. But just with 1 extra step.)

JK	Person
Appreciate the follow Are you building on twitter or just digging the content? ... or are you a stalker? 🙄

	Stalker. definitely stalker. But yea interested in your niche. trying to grow my account and build authority in my niche
Haha awesome man what are you selling? (or planning to)
	I like the idea of having an audience I can work with to launch new products. Maybe a podcast. not sure, haven't figured it all out yet. Do you have any thoughts or advice?
Gotcha. You have to be careful to build the audience without a refined offer because then you attract a lot of freeloaders. It works if you have the offer first. We can help you craft one. Would you like to see what that process would look like?
	Yes
Here's what I'm thinking. Lemme connect you w Vlad - our scaling guy. Good dude You two can jam on ways to get your offer rolling. If relevant he'll show you how we can help Cool?
	Appreciate that!
Here: link.

Mind booking now so I can send my team the details?
	Done. Thanks.

Situational Scripts

There are infinite places a conversation could go. Use these guiding principles to get them to go where you want them to.

Getting Questions	Answer them with insight, not value. Notice how I don't give anyone the steps. I just point at the spot on the map. When that person said they were burnt out from creating content I didn't give him the steps. Instead I said this: "I wouldn't focus on creating new content. The real shift you need is how to use more content out of the work you're already doing. It works if you have the plan to match it because we don't come up with "new stuff" often. You don't need to. I can help you find it inside Cash Creators. Would you like to see the details?" Don't tell them what to do. Show them where to look. Then use your discernment if you can just end it there. A useful phrase to end with: "Do you have any more questions or do you feel like you've made a decision? Cool with either."
Should Be Fine	Most of the small questions you'll encounter are a variation of the big question: Is this for me? For a lot of them you can use the great and powerful Should Be Fine Strategy.
Asks for the details the second time.	Ask them why they want them again if they said no.

	Hey - last time I sent you the invite I didn't hear back from you. What changed?
Red Flag	Just cut it right there. Not everyone who churns is a loser. But every loser churns.
Someone said they're in, but you're closed.	Cool. I'll send you a payment link when a spot opens up. → Then just send.
Spot opened up / You're announcing it to the Waitlist	Hey, a spot opened up. I can onboard you on Tuesday. Would you like to get started?
Stalling	Would you like to be added to the [Month] Waitlist? I notify Waitlist members early and that way you can save a spot for when we open then.
Commented Auto DM	Here's your [Resource]: Link. What are you working on? I may have some other stuff that might be helpful.

How We Keep Track Of Conversations

Don't build a rocket ship when a bike will do. You don't need a CRM. It's unnecessary for our model. Gmail Labels and a notes app will do.

There's 4 places someone can be in at any moment:

- 2 days
- Day of
- waitlist
→ Close File

- They have the doc → Follow Up.
- They're on the waitlist → Waitlist.
- They say they're in but we're closed → Hot Waitlist.
- They became clients → Clients.

If we close the loop or they say they're out → Remove Label.

Christian sets and removes these labels depending on which stage they're in.

This is for Email.

If it's for socials, Christian just keeps track of the names on a Notes app. It tells him who to follow up with and then when a decision is made he just deletes the name.

—

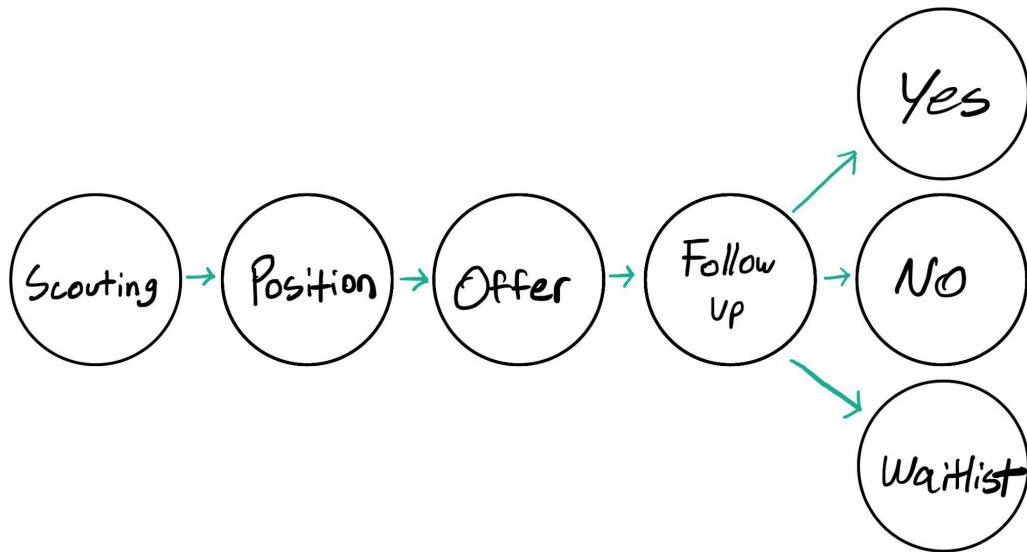

Because of how we sell (We don't. We just remind people of consequences), Christian can handle 90% of conversations on his own.

If there's a question that needs my discernment, then he just leaves it unread. I know to check those and follow the Script when I check email.

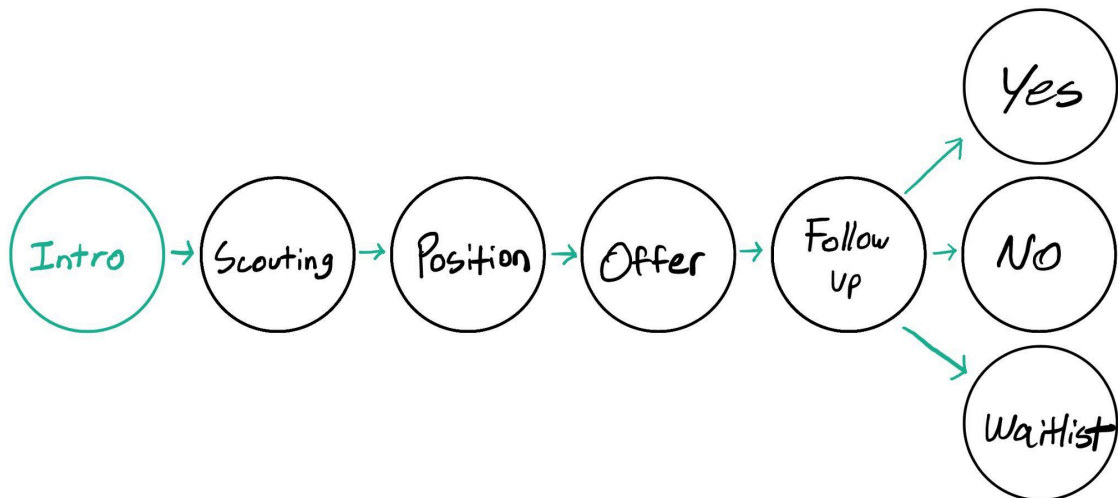

Simple. The Cash Creator Way.

Recap

- The Cash Creator Model is designed to get you to a point where you don't have to do outbound. But if you must - do it.
- The Cash Script

- The Cash Script (Outbound)

- Most questions are just a variation of “is this for me?”
- Don’t talk yourself out of the sale.
- The less you say the better.
- You don’t need a CRM. Labels and a notes app will do.

Resources

With the Cash Creator Model the goal is to get you to a point where you only get inbound. We define inbound as someone who replies to your email or reaches out.

If you have more than 3,000 followers this can be done.

Best trainings for that are:

- If you haven't validated your doc → Sell Without Sales Calls
- If you email daily → Email Sales Machine.
- If you don't → The 20 Minute Email.
- Regardless → Hand Raisers.

But if you need to do Outbound, then do it. Build up your audience, income or both so that you won't have to.

And a note on Summer:

Things will get tough. When that happens, Cash Creators don't give up. We put our hand up and ask for help. You've got a community of smart people who want to build up to $1M in annual profit just as much as you. Ask and we'll help you execute your plan or craft a new one.

